It is not unusual these days that university students work part-time to support themselves financially. While some can manage their school work and their part-time jobs relatively successfully, others fail entirely and have to leave school altogether.

Did you work part-time in the last few years as a student? Why or why not? What are your views on this? What are some advantages and/or disadvantages of working part-time as a student? And what would you say to the first-year students in college or university? (100%)
