Being the global language, English has been deemed important in both the academic world and the work place. University students in Taiwan, accordingly, are required to reach a certain level of proficiency in English—commonly the intermediate level at least—before they are allowed to graduate. The requirements, however, have been received with both warm welcome and heated objections.

Take a stand on the issue of foreign language requirements and write an essay to either support or refute the necessity of such requirements. Your essay should include an introduction, your arguments, and a conclusion. Do not forget to give your essay a title. (100%)
