Write an essay in which you convey some main idea about realistic or plausible ELT methodologies for Taiwan. Do this by comparing or contrasting a specific real English classroom scenario from Taiwan (not an imaginary one) on the one hand with some ideal scenario one might find in the ESL or EFL methodology research literature on the other. Your purpose may be to convey the appropriateness or the inappropriateness of the methodology you have selected for a specific real scenario found in Taiwan, or it may be to make some other point about realistic methodologies for Taiwan's English classroom scenarios.

Provide a structured organization for your contrast and comparison and be sure that your points of comparison or contrast between your chosen real classroom scenario and your chosen methodology's ideal scenario are developed with supporting details and serve to convey the main point or purpose of your essay.
