

系別：英文學系

科目：英語教學概論

本試題共 1 頁，4 大題

Answer each of the following questions in essay form: 100%

1. To be a proficient language learner, one must be equipped with linguistic competence and communicative competence. 1) Define and differential between the two terms, 2) describe the characteristics of each, and 3) explain how learners can acquire both linguistic competence and communicative competence. Support your answers with related theories. (25%)
2. Affective factors are important in English learning/teaching. List at least five affective factors worthy of consideration when teaching/learning English. Explain the effects of the factors and how to improve English teaching/learning in regards to these affective factors. 25%
3. In the history of second language acquisition, there are different theories to explain how learners learn English? 1) List and explain the different theories, 2) state and support your arguments on the debates of the theories. 25%
4. How does one's first language influence the learning of a second language? Explain in detail and support your claims with theories of second language acquisition. 25%