1. What do you say about the statement that “in acquiring a language there is, to some extent, an appropriation of a cultural identity”? In what ways do you think an ESL teacher should manage the cultural contents of our classrooms?

2. Define "reading" first and then outline some principles for designing materials for developing interactive reading skills. Give examples to illustrate your points of view.

3. Try to argue "to teach or not to teach grammar" at each level of language classes. Discuss, with your reasons and arguments, the importance/relevance of grammar with L2 English learners.

4. Suppose the following book advertisement catches your attention. In your opinion, what are “the areas your students need for successful communication” in their present and future situations?

ENGLISH KnowtHow - new for adults and younger adults

ENGLISH KnowtHow is the brand new course that draws upon the experience, opinions, ideas, and aims that adult learners bring to class.

It provides a complete program of language and skills development, placing special emphasis on the areas students need for successful communication in their personal and professional lives.
